e-Newsletter 7 - reel of experience...a centre of excellence

A new concept in camera and production craft skills

We are delighted to announce our 'reel of experience...centre of excellence' for training in film and TV production. Now from our base in the West of England we are producing workshops for national and international delegates, training across the spectrum of production skills, from camera craft to location sound and from directing to finding that key location.

The 'reel of experience' highlights our mantra 'Teacher, Trainer, Shooter, Tutor'.

As we build our team of experienced trainers, so we extend our remit of having only respected professionals; those who practise their craft on location one day and train in a workshop the next. We are delighted to welcome Richard Meredith on board; a sound recordist of huge experience, not least location sound, live music recording and radio production. Also Rob Sylvester, a film editor of many years distinction, who has edited numerous drama and documentary productions and has also cut a significant amount of Jeremy's material. We are looking forward to this synergy of our trainers being put to very good use in our Masterclasses.

See our profile page for details of all our tutors www.jeremyhumphries.com/Profiles.

Our 'centre of excellence' in the West of England is rapidly becoming endorsed by companies and individuals based outside London, who want to save time and money travelling to the capital. Also nationally and internationally we are proving that by taking our workshops to film schools or company HQ's, downtime is minimised, in house equipment can be utilised and delegates can even disappear off at lunchtime to answer an email or two!

New Website

In addition to our 'reel of experience...centre of excellence' motto, we have also just launched a brand new website, which not only looks different, but is very accessible to view the workshops available, to see the expertise our tutors offer and to read about the certification given for workshop attendance.

Look out for the new Jeremy Humphries 'Fact File' page. We will be rolling this out over the next 6 months; a glossary of technical terms for you to download or check a fact or phrase the day before a shoot. Contact us if there is something specific you want to see clarified in the 'Fact File'.

We also have a new blog which you can see by visiting jeremyhumphries.wordpress.com, where you can catch up with news as it happens, find out what Jeremy has been up to, and also stay aware of TV transmissions that Jeremy has been involved in..

Current Filming Projects

We know many of you followed the BBC Natural History series 'Wildest Dreams' over the summer; now into the autumn, Jeremy has been filming at the Natural History Museum in London for an 8 hour series on BBC 2. The 'Secret Millionaire' episode which Jeremy shot was transmitted last month and we were delighted that a number of papers gave it 'Pick of the Day'.

This month Jeremy is due to start shooting the next series of 'Police, Camera, Action' for Optomen Television.

More information like this will soon be added to our blog, so check back there for weekly screenings.

Encounters short film festival

Our Location Manager tutor, Maggie Ainley, will be holding a 'Location Manager Workshop' at the Encounters Short Film Festival in Bristol on 20th November (see the website for confirmation of date and timings: www.encounters-festival.org.uk). Open to delegates, the festival website provides full costing information. It will be a fascinating workshop where, regardless of how big your shoot might be, Maggie leads you through the protocol of permits, politeness and police! A surgery will take place afterwards where Maggie and Jeremy will be available for advice, based on Maggie's wide experience and Jeremy's role as a DoP.

Stop Press

We are delighted to announce that Joanna Crosse of Metamedia will be joining forces with us to offer in front of camera skills. From interview technique to presentation and from elocution to boosting your confidence in front of the camera, Joanna offers a huge range of experience for TV, radio and public speaking. See Joanna's profile on our website profiles page www.jeremyhumphries.com/Profiles

We can now confidently say that our reel of experience offers unique training from the start to the end of the production process....the unravelling of the reel has begun!
